Overcrowded

Attempting to function in an overcrowded room can be a harrowing experience. Limitation of movement, a rising temperature, and an increased likelihood of collision and conflict often occur when too many people press into a space not originally designed to hold them. Such a situation can readily contribute to a heightened level of stress and a greater probability for injury. People generally do not fare very well in tight, cramped situations; they often have trouble thinking clearly and acting conscientiously.

Sometimes our lives get like this – overcrowded – not so much with people, but with the swirling demands, obligations, responsibilities, requests, activities, problems, worries, doubts, and fears of this earthly existence. At least occasionally, our environments – both internal and external – become so cluttered with a plethora of complex matters that we find ourselves super-stressed, overwhelmed, and on the verge of self-destruction.

In view of these overcrowded conditions, the question arises: “How do we deal with the sundry pressures, the voluminous complications, and the disarming bewilderment that these unfavorable conditions produce?” That is, “How do we handle the over-crowdedness? We might find a clue to a meaningful answer in a seldom-mentioned story about the ancient Hebrew patriarch Isaac. While attempting to settle in a valley called Gerar, Isaac decided to dig out an old well that his father Abraham had dug in prior years. Upon finding water there, some of the herders of that region quarreled over the water with Isaac and his servants; so Isaac decided to move to another location in the valley to dig a second well. As before, he found water, but he likewise received the same response from the herders of Gerar, who claimed that the well and the water therefrom belonged to them. Isaac, then, decided to move on and dig a third well. This time, however, no argument ensued and so Isaac called the place Rehoboth – which means broad place. To recognize his now good fortune, he said, “Now the Lord has made room for us, and we shall be fruitful in the land” (Genesis 26:22).

Consider just two thoughts that we might glean from this narrative in conjunction with the overcrowded conditions of our lives: First, sometimes we have to just move on when our difficulties become too numerous or confounded. We cannot fix every broken situation; we can solve every baffling problem; when the complications we face present challenges that apparently have no viable resolutions, we just may need to leave and try again in another context. Second, we must trust and hope in God, even when we encounter multiple layers of opposition. Isaac did this and eventually found his Rehoboth – his broad place, his plenty, his abundance. We can do likewise with the sustaining assistance and flawless guidance of our caring and loving God.

Minister Eddie Anthony Robinson is a native of Williston, SC and a graduate of the University of South Carolina where he majored in music. He completed his master’s degree from Liberty University in Lynchburg, VA 2013 and is currently writing his dissertation for the Doctorate in Worship Studies Degree.

He is one of the nation’s consummate church musicians. His music ministry has left an indelible impression of congregations across the country for nearly thirty years. He is a sought after lecturer, workshop clinician and worship ministry consultant.

Minister Robinson currently serves as the Minister of Music and Director of Worship and Arts at Springfield Baptist Church in Conyers, GA where Pastor Eric Wendel Lee is Pastor. He also served as Minister of Music and Celebrative Arts at New Mount Olive Baptist Church in Fort Lauderdale, FL for sixteen years prior to his relocation to the Atlanta area in 2015.

“Milkshake” Mayfield - Trumpeter/Flugelhornist

Milkshake is Atlanta’s home grown ‘trumpeter extraordinaire’, a title befittingly labeled on him by Atlanta’s legendary radio host, the late “Tippy” Calloway. Milkshake is his signature name, tagged him by his neighborhood friends in early childhood because of his insatiable appetite for milkshakes. This name has brought him notable acclaim; that same quenchless taste transcended to his music profession as a signature jazz artist. He is a music major from Clark College (CC); (now Clark-Atlanta University). His trumpet & flugelhorn have taken him all over the world. While on tour with CC’s Jazz Ensemble, he shared local, national & international stages with jazz giants, Dizzy Gillespie, Duke Ellington & Cab Calloway & also the late Phyllis Hyman. In the 80s, he was introduced to his most influential jazz trumpeters who he also performed with, the late Clark Terry (his mentor) & Freddie Hubbard. This early exposure to jazz inspired him to form his own band, the Milkshake Quintet (MSQ). He stands on the shoulders of these renowned jazz legends & part of his presentation style mirrors their esteemed professionalism as music moguls. From there, he developed his own unique brand of contemporary & straight ahead style that he describes as “silky-smooth-jazz-seasoned-with-a-taste-of-bebop-&-funk”. He was also influenced by the funky blend of music of the late ‘soulster’, James Brown. His credentials earned him a nomination in the 2016 Gospel Choice Awards in the “Best Music/Instrumentalist” category.

It was in the 5th grade that Milkshake received his very first trumpet. That has always been his motivating force to give back to youths through mentoring middle & high school students, locally & in Toccoa, GA (his birth place). He also mentors aspiring musicians via workshops sponsored by Atlanta’s Jazz radio station WCLK 91.9’s “Jazz In the School” outreach program.

Milkshake & wife Christine, MSQ’s featured vocalist, often cruise international seas with Our Gang Travel, LLC, where they perform jazz concerts on Royal Caribbean Cruise Lines’ across the seas, including the Caribbean & Europe. In 2008, he made history as the first trumpeter to perform at the 1st communion service at the tomb of John the Baptist in Ephesus, Turkey.

Faithful fans of Milkshake & the MSQ enjoy the signature sound on a regular basis most anywhere, including Atlanta’s Sweet Georgia’s Juke Joint; Wednesday Wind Down; Wolf Creek & Mable House Barnes Amphitheatres, as well as Atlanta Mayoral Events; and Jazz venues in Birmingham, Al and Biloxi, MS.

Willie “Fred” Bryan

Willie “Fred” Bryan has earned the respect of his musical peers as a talented musician, composer, arranger and band director. God gave “Fred” the gift of musical talent at the early age of four when he began taking piano lessons from the late Ms. Zenobia Terry. He began playing for a store front church at the age of seven through his high school years and studied the Hammond Organ with Ms. Gerry Mathis at age ten and the Pipe Organ with Mr. Herbert Archer at age fifteen. Born and raised in Atlanta Georgia, Fred is a product of the Atlanta Public School System where he graduated from Luther Judson Price High School. He began his collegiate studies at Mercer University in Macon Georgia and later transferred and received the Bachelor of Arts degree in Music Education from Clark Atlanta University, the Masters of Education degree from Cambridge College in Boston Massachusetts and the Education Specialist degree in Music Education from Boston University in Boston Massachusetts.

Fred’s stage name is “Magic Fingers” because of the musical magic that glides across every musical keyboard he plays. Fred currently teaches band for the DeKalb County School System and also serves as Director of Music at Zion Hill Baptist Church in Atlanta, Georgia, where the Rev. Dr. Aaron Parker is the pastor. He sometimes arranges music for local high school bands to perform. Fred has also served as a music consultant for some churches in the metropolitan area starting and reorganizing their music departments. His professional affiliations are: Georgia Music Educators Association, Music Educators National Conference, the Atlanta Guild of Organists, the Georgia Professional Standards Content Review Panel and Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia Music Fraternity of America, Inc.

Pray for our Sick, Shut-In and Bereaved Families

¹³ Are any among you suffering? They should pray. Are any cheerful? They should sing songs of praise. ¹⁴ Are any among you sick? They should call for the elders of the church and have them pray over them, anointing them with oil in the name of the Lord. ¹⁵ The prayer of faith will save the sick, and the Lord will raise them up; and anyone who has committed sins will be forgiven.
